The San Diego-Imperial Center of Excellence for Labor Market Research (COE) developed this brief to assist the region's community colleges with strategic planning and program development. According to available labor market information, Interpreters and Translators in San Diego County have a labor market demand of 110 annual job openings (while average demand for a single occupation in San Diego County is 242 annual job openings), and six educational institutions in San Diego County supply 99 awards for this occupation, suggesting that the supply gap is met in the labor market. Entry-level and median wages for this occupation are above the living wage. This brief recommends to not proceed with developing a new program, but supports a program modification because 1) the supply gap is met in the region; 2) entry-level and median earnings for this occupation are above the living wage. The colleges should note that the typical entry-level education is a bachelor's degree. The colleges should also note that the percentage of students who complete a related program and earn a living wage is below the statewide percentage of students who complete Career Education programs in general.

Introduction

This report provides labor market information in San Diego County for the following occupational code in the Standard Occupational Classification (SOC)¹ system:

Demand vs. Supply

Comparing labor demand (annual openings) with labor supply⁷ suggests that the supply gap is met for this occupation in San Diego County, with 110 annual openings and 99 awards. Comparatively, there are 1,335 annual openings in California and 890 awards, suggesting that there is a supply gap across the state⁸ (Exhibit 5).

Exhibit 5: Labor Demand (Annual Openings) Compared with Labor Supply (Average Annual Awards)

	Demand (Annual Openings)	Supply (Total Annual Average Supply)	Supply Gap or Oversupply
San Diego	110	99	11
California	1,335	890	445

Please note: This is a basic analysis of supply and demand of labor. The data does not include workers currently in the labor force who could fill these positions or workers who are not captured by publicly available data. This data should be used to discuss the potential gaps or oversupply of workers; however, it should not be the only basis for determining whether or not a program should be developed.

⁷ Labor supply can be found from two different sources: EMSI or the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office MIS Data Mart. EMSI uses CIP codes while MIS uses TOP codes. Different coding systems result in differences in the supply numbers.

Online Job Postings

This report analyzes not only historical and projected (traditional LMI) data, but also recent data from online job postings (real-time LMI). Online job postings may provide additional insight about recent changes in the labor market that are not captured by historical data. Between 2010 and 2020, there was an average of 232 online job postings per year for Interpreters and Translators in San Diego County (Exhibit 7). Please note that online job postings do not equal labor market demand; demand is represented by annual job openings (see Exhibit 1). Employers may post a position multiple times for various reasons, such as increasing the pool of applicants, for example.
